Matt Jacobs was first certified as a scuba diver in 1982 as a college freshman, seeing a $99 course offered through UT's Informal Class system.

Since that time, Matt began diving more frequently and has spent more than 10 years serving as a Scout leader in the Capital Area Council, including positions as Den Leader and Cubmaster in Pack 149, Assistant Scoutmaster and Venture Crew Advisor with Troop and Crew 513, and COPE Facilitator for the council. Matt's oldest son is an Eagle Scout, attending Texas A&M as a zoology major. Matt's youngest son is currently a Life Scout and is a member of Troop and Crew 513.

Matt is currently helping plan Troop 513's third trip in six years to BSA Sea Base in Islamorada, Florida, and specializes in teaching youth and adult leaders to safely enjoy the underwater world.
